癸酉 1813	癸未 1823	癸巳 1833	癸卯 1843	癸丑 1853	癸亥 1863

The Chinese year is luni-solar, comprising twelve lunar months, to which an intercalary month is added when requisite to preserve correspondence with the solar year. When, during a lunar month, the sun does not enter any sign of the Zodiac, that month is intercalary, and the year contains thirteen moons. The year commences on the new moon nearest to the fifteenth degree of Aquarius. It is corrected, according to the solar year, by the use of twenty-four tsieh, or half-monthly terms, each of which covers the period of the sun's passage through the half of one of our zodiacal signs. The names of these 24 terms, or tsieh, 節 like those of the French revolutionary months, have reference to the season of the year.

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN AND MOON IN 1854.

In the year 1854, there will be two eclipses of the Sun, and two of the Moon :—

- I. A partial eclipse of the Moon, May 12th, invisible at Canton; visible in North Australia and the Indian Ocean.
- II. An annular eclipse of the Sun, May 26th, invisible at Canton; visible in North America and the Pacific.
- III. A partial eclipse of the Moon, Nov. 4th, invisible at Canton; visible in Europe.
- IV. A total eclipse of the Sun, Nov. 20th, invisible at Canton; visible at the Cape of Good Hope and in the Antarctic Ocean.

CHRONOLOGICAL CHARACTERS.

OF these the Chinese have several classes: the following are the most ancient and most generally used. They consist of two sets of characters, the one of which, called 十干 Shih kán, the 'Ten stems,' or 天干 Tien kán, the 'Celestial stems,' includes ten characters, viz :—

- 1 甲 Kiáh, 2 乙 Yih, 3 丙 Ping, 4 丁 Ting, 5 戊 Wú, 6 己 Kí, 7 庚 Káng, 8 辛 Sin, 9 壬 Jin, 10 癸 Kwei.

The other set called 十二支 Shih-'rh ché, 'the Twelve branches,' and 地支 Tí ché, 'Terrestrial branches,' consist of these twelve characters :—

- 1 子 Tsz', 2 丑 Chau, 3 寅 Yin, 4 卯 Mau, 5 辰 Shin, 6 巳 Sz',
7 午 Wú, 8 未 Wí, 9 申 Shin, 10 酉 Yú, 11 戌 Siuh, 12 亥 Hai.

These characters are applied to years, months, days, and hours, as well as to the points of the compass. For chronological purposes they have been combined so as to form a Cycle of sixty, as represented on page 3. Kiáh, the first of the ten, is joined to tsz', the first of the twelve, and read kiáh-tsz', which denotes the first year, month, &c., of the Cycle. In the same manner yih and chau, the second of the two sets are united, and so on through the 'ten stems.' Then kiáh, the first of the ten, is again joined to siuh, the 11th of the twelve, and in this manner the conjunction is continued up to sixty, when the tenth of the 'Stems,' and the twelfth of the 'Branches,' come together, and the Cycle recommences. The 4th year of Hienfung, which commences on the 29th of January, 1854, is the 51st of the Cycle of years, and is called Kiáh-yin; the first moon of that year is the 53d of the cycle of moons, and is called Ping-yin; and the 1st day of the 1st moon is the 38th of the cycle, and is called Sin-chau.

For hours (and also for the points of the compass), the 'Twelve branches' are used singly. The civil day of twenty-four hours is divided into twelve periods of two hours, each called a shí shin, which are designated by the characters of the Twelve Branches in the following manner, to which the Manchus and Japanese, more than the Chinese, apply the names of certain animals.

11 to 1, or midnight, 子 tsz' , Rat.	11 to 1 or noon, 午 wú , Horse.
1 to 3—4th watch, 丑 chau , Cow.	1 to 3 - - 未 wí , Sheep.
3 to 5—5th watch, 寅 yín , Tiger.	3 to 5 - - 申 shín , Monkey.
5 to 7 - - - 卯 máu , Rabbit.	5 to 7 - - 酉 yú , Cock.
7 to 9 - - - 辰 shín , Dragon.	7 to 9-1st watch 戌 siuh , Dog.
9 to 11 - - - 巳 sz' , Snake.	9 to 11—2d do. 亥 hái , Boar.

By prefixing to the characters the words ching 正 and kiáu, 交 these twelve periods are divided into twenty-four hours: thus 正子 ching-tsz', denotes midnight or 12 o'clock, and forwards to 1 o'clock; and 交子 kiáu-tsz' denotes from 11 to 12 o'clock. The shí shín, or two hour periods, are divided into eight kih 刻 or quarters. 正卯一刻 Ching-máu yih kih signifies a quarter past six in the morning; and kiáu-shín urh kih, 交辰二刻 denotes half past seven o'clock.

The night, from 7 o'clock in the evening to 5 in the morning, is also divided into five 更 kang, or watches, each watch consisting of one shí-shín, equal to two of the European hours.

NOTES OF THE WEATHER.

AND RAINY DAYS AT FUHCHAU, TIMES OF FRUIT, &c.

The number of clear days during the year 1851 bore the following proportion to the cloudy ones:—

	Clear.	Cloudy.	Rainy days.
January,	1	7	None
February,	1	3	5 days
March,	4½	1	1 "
April,	2	1	2 "
May,	1½	1	6 "
June,	5	3	3 "
July,	9½	1	None
August,	15	1	2 days
September,	7	5	6 "
October,	7	6	1 "
November,	5	4½	4 "
December,	4½	1	2 "

The pípá or loquat and the lícht blossom in January; the first is ripe about April 25th, the second the last of June. The lungyen is in flower from April 1st to 15th, and ripens in the latter half of August. The Chinese olive (Canarium) flowers in April, and is ripe in Sept.; it bears a high price, and is sent to Súcchau. The arbutus or yáng mei (Myrica) is ripe in May. The kom-quot orange flowers in January, and ripens in November. Pomegranates, grapes, pumelos, and guavas are ripe in August; the peach, pear, and plum come to market from the last of May to the first of July. The apple is small and rather pleasant; ripens in December. The plums are red and yellow, and consumed in great quantities. The mandarin and coolie oranges are also very common; the former attains a large size.

PARSEE CHRONOLOGY.

The æra adopted by the Parsees is called the Æra of Yezdejerd, and commences A.D. 632, the year of the accession of Yezdejerd III. to the throne of Persia, and the same in which that kingdom was attacked by the Arabs; the Sassanian dynasty terminated by the successive defeats of this monarch in 656, and afterwards in 641, and his expulsion from the country. There are two modes of calculating this æra adopted by the Parsees, which differ only in one month; the Kudmees reckon time as given in the first column in this Calendar, the Rusmees, or Shenshai, date it one month later, as given in the second column, commencing their year September 26th. The intercalation of five days at the end of the 12 months of 30 days to complete the year of 365 days, is a very ancient mode, introduced by and adopted from the Chaldeans, by the Persians, Medes, Egyptians, Grecians, Romans, and Mexicans, among all of whom they were observed with mirth and feasting. They are collectively called Gawthaws by the Parsees, but each one has its own name, as pellow honooud, beejow oostooud, teejow uppuntomud, chotho vough khustuther, and pachmor vestoyest. The year A.D. 1854 corresponds to the year 1223 of this æra, ending August 26th, or September 25th, when the year 1224 commences.

The lunar year, commencing April 27th, is the 1216th of the civil æra of the Siamese and Burmese; and that beginning May 27th, is the 4397th of their religious year, computed from the death of Budha. The Japanese, Coreans, and Cochinchinese follow the Chinese sexagenary cycle, in calling the present year kiuh-yin 甲寅 but each of these nations also dates events from the commencement of the reigns of their respective monarchs.

JANUARY, 31 Days.

Chinese IIIrd Year, XIIth Moon; and IVth Year, Ist Moon.

The weather at Canton, during this month, is dry, cold, and bracing—differing but little, if at all, from that of December. The wind blows generally from the north, occasionally inclining to the NE. or NW. A change to the south—which may be expected at intervals of 10 or 15 days, during the winter—causes considerable variation in the temperature of the atmosphere.

The weather of this month at Shanghai is generally fine, but not always steadily so; showers of rain, dead calms accompanied by dense fog, or more rarely snow, alternate with a fine frosty, bracing atmosphere. The wind is generally NW. or NE., with occasional southerly breezes, which last for two or three days.

FEBRUARY, 28 Days.

Chinese IVth Year, 1st and II^d Moons.

During this month at Canton the thermometer continues low ; but the dry bracing cold of the three preceding months is changed for a damp and chilly atmosphere ; the number of fine fair days is much diminished, and cloudy and foggy ones are frequent. The prevailing winds are from the northeast and east, and are charged with moisture ; the thermometer does not give a just index of their chilliness.

During the first half of this month at Shanghai, and the last of January, the coldest weather of the year generally occurs. The greater portion of the snow that falls descends during this month. The wind continues much as in January, with a greater bias towards the NW., and thick fogs also occur. Nevertheless, the sun is at times very powerful, and seems to give the first impetus to the wheat and bean crops, which have been nearly dormant during the winter. The beans are now first observed in flower.

MARCH, 31 Days.Chinese IVth year, IIId and IIIId Moons.

The weather at Canton in March is also damp and foggy, but the temperature of the atmosphere becomes considerably warmer; to preserve things from damp, it is requisite to continue the use of fires and closed doors, which the heat of the atmosphere renders very unpleasant. From March till July and August, the thermometer steadily increases in height, until the heat reaches its maximum degree.

The weather of this month at Shanghai is generally damp. Frost is rare; but the thermometer scarcely offers a true criterion of the oppressiveness of the atmosphere, as it seldom indicates a heat above 60°. The crops now progress rapidly, and towards the end of the month the aroma exhaled by the numerous bean fields is truly exquisite. The wind becomes variable; not unfrequently blowing from the SE., with occasional NW. gales.

APRIL, 30 Days.

Chinese IVth Year, IIIrd and IVth Moons.

The thick fogs which begin to disappear towards the end of March in Canton are in April seldom seen. The atmosphere is damp, and rainy days are not unfrequent. At the same time, the thermometer gradually rises, and the nearer approach of the sun renders that heat more perceptible. In this and the summer months, southerly winds generally prevail; frequently veering to the eastward, and prevailing more from that direction, occasionally coming from the south and southwest at Macao and its vicinity.

With the exception of June, there are more rainy days during this month at Shanghai than in any other of the twelve. The amount that falls however does not approach that of the succeeding three months. The temperature steadily increases, which accompanied with the damp, is exceedingly disagreeable. The bean pods are now formed and the wheat is in ear; the willows and other early trees become covered with foliage; and the greater frequency of southerly breezes announces the near approach of summer.

MAY, 31 Days.Chinese IVth Year, IVth and Vth Moons.

In this month the heat is fully set in at Canton, and is often oppressive, the more so from the closeness of the atmosphere, the winds being usually light and variable. This is the most rainy month in the year, averaging fifteen days and a half of heavy rain; cloudy days without rain, however, are of frequent occurrence, and one half of the month, and in some seasons, almost the whole of it, averages fine sunny weather.

During this month the amount of rain that falls at Shánghai is usually small, and as heavy temporary passing showers. The weather now becomes decidedly warm, and the wind, though variable, is most generally from SE. or ESE. During the first portion of May, the beans are pulled up by the roots, and either dug or ploughed into the ground for manure. The paddy fields are irrigated, and the peasants are engaged in treading the mud with their own feet or by buffaloes. As the month advances, Chinese husbandry may well be seen in the preparation of the ground and sowing of the cotton. Most of the wheat has arrived at maturity, and cut down, and has been conveyed to the farmsteads or thrashed by the end of the month.

JUNE, 30 Days.Chinese IVth Year, Vth and VIth Moons.

The month of June is also a very wet month at Canton, although, on an average, the number of rainy days is less than in the other summer months. The thermometer rises several degrees higher than in the month of May, and falls but little at night—it is this latter circumstance, chiefly, which causes the exhaustion often felt in this region from the heat of summer—no opportunity being afforded for regaining strength.

This is usually the wettest month in the year at Shánghái, the average number of inches of rain which falls being nearly 8. The peasants take advantage of this to transplant their paddy, which they accomplish in an expert manner. The temperature continues to increase, but is not yet oppressive from the coolness of the nights, during which the thermometer seldom rises above 75°.

JULY, 31 Days.

Chinese IVth Year, VIth and VIIth Moons.

During July—which is the hottest month in the year at Canton—the average height of the thermometer is 88° in the shade, at noon, both at Canton and Macao. This month is subject to frequent and heavy showers of rain, and—as is also the month of August—to storms of thunder and lightning. The winds, with very little variation, blow steadily during the whole month from the south or southwest.

This month is, at Shànghái, described as hot, dry and scorching; considerable rain however falls, but generally in the evening in the form of heavy thunder showers; these are sometimes very severe. During the heat of the day no one ventures abroad who can avoid doing so; and the silence of noon is strangely contrasted with the activity visible in the fields morning and evening, in weeding and hoeing the cotton plants.

AUGUST, 31 Days.Chinese IVth Year, VIIth and Intercalary Moons.

During this month the heat is as oppressive at Canton generally as in the month of July—often indeed it is more so, although the thermometer usually stands lower. Towards the close of the month, when summer begins to break up, the wind occasionally veers from southeast to north and northwest. Tyfoons seldom occur earlier than the first of this month, or later than the end of September.

The hottest weather at Shānghái generally occurs about the commencement of this month; but as the wind is frequently very high at the same time, a true indication will not be given by the thermometer without the greatest care being observed. What rain falls is generally in drizzling showers. The cotton plant is now in full flower, giving the fields quite a gay appearance.

SEPTEMBER, 30 Days.Chinese IVth Year, Intercalary and VIIIth Moons.

In the month of September, the monsoon is entirely broken up, and northerly winds begin to blow, but with partial alleviation of the heat. This is the period most exposed to the description of hurricanes called tyfoons, the range of which extends southwards over about one half of the Chinese sea, and northward to the coast of Japan. They have appeared with the greatest severity in the gulf of Tonquin and the Channel of Formosa.

By this time the monsoon is wholly broken up at Shanghai, and the wind prevails from E. to NE. The temperature becomes very changeable, sometimes as great a range as 29° occurring in the course of a day. Although the weather is frequently damp, much rain does not generally fall during the month; during the year 1850, however, no less than 16.67 inches were registered. The rice approaches maturity, and the first portion of cotton is gathered.

OCTOBER, 31 Days.Chinese IVth Year, VIIIth and IXth Moons.

Northerly winds prevail throughout this month at Canton, occasionally veering to the NE. or NW.; but the temperature of the atmosphere is neither so cold nor so dry as in the following months; neither does the northerly wind blow so constantly—southerly and easterly winds intervening every now and then. The winter usually sets in with three or four days of light drizzling rain.

During this month but little rain falls at Shanghai, and the atmosphere assumes a peculiar clearness. The temperature is pleasantly cool; although it is still unsafe for Europeans to expose themselves to the direct rays of the sun. By the close of this month, the fields are under the plough, and in some places receive the early wheat seed. In the surrounding hamlets all seem intent on thrashing and storing the bountiful gifts of Providence. The greater portion of the cotton is gathered.

NOVEMBER, 30 Days.Chinese IVth Year, IXth and Xth Moons.

The month of November, and the two following, are the most pleasant in the year,—at least to the feelings of persons from the more northern climates. Though the thermometer is not often below 40°, and seldom so low as 30 degrees, the cold of a winter at Canton is often very severe. Ice sometimes forms about one eighth of an inch thick; this is usually in December or January.

The winter is now fairly set in at Shanghai; the first frost appearing from the 12th to the 20th. The wind prevails from the NW. steadily, and very little rain falls. The remaining cotton is picked, and the stalks pulled up, displaying a crop of beans a few inches high, which had been planted by dibbling some short time previously. The early wheat, now some inches above the surface of the ground, gives a refreshing greenness to the country.

DECEMBER, 31 Days.

Chinese IVth Year, Xth and XIth Moons.

The months of December and January are remarkably free from rain, the average fall in each month being under one inch, and the average number of rainy days being only three and a half. On the whole, the climate of Canton (and more especially that of Macao) may be considered superior to that of most other places situated between the tropics.

This is the driest month in the year at Shanghai, rain falling but rarely, although frogs are not unfrequent. The weather is very similar to that of England during the same month, but probably more clear and bracing; frost and hoarfrost occur almost every day. The country looks very bleak, and the dead level nature of the ground becomes very apparent after the cutting down of the reeds from the tombs.

The flood tide, when regular, (which is seldom) runs round Cabreta Point towards the town of Macao ; but a little outside of the Point it sets along the land to the north, across the bay, until it meets the tide from Capsing-moon (or Kapshui-moon, 'the passage of the rapids'), above Lintin, when it flows in a direct channel towards the Bogue. The velocity of the flood tide in Macao Roads is about 2½ miles, in the north-east monsoon, in moderate weather ; but when it blows strong from the northward there is no apparent flood. The ebb then runs at the rate of 3 to 3½ and 4 miles, when the water is falling by the land. The ebb tide sets out from the town of Macao much in the same way as the flood comes in, with the difference of running a little more to the westward along the shore, before it takes the southerly direction ; the latter part of this tide is therefore the best time for boats to start for Lintin or Canton, with a contrary wind, as they then get out far enough to have all the flood to work to the northward with.

The tides at Lintin run north and south or nearly so. The velocity of the ebb, in the north-east monsoon, when blowing strong, is much the same as in Macao Roads ; but there is always a perceptible flood of 1 or 1½ mile. During the height of the south-west monsoon, the ebb runs at times at the rate of 6 and 6½ miles, after heavy rains ; at that season the floods are very weak.

* The flood ceases rising at this hour, but the stream, in the middle of the river, runs up a considerable time longer.—Horsburgh.

At Hongkong, during the summer months, the highest water is three days after, and in winter three days before, the full and change. In September, October, and November, and the three corresponding spring months of March, April, and May, the highest water is at the latter end of the first quarter. In March, the tide is very low.

At all seasons of the year, the tides are most irregular in and off the mouth of the Canton river. It may, however be observed, as an invariable rule, that the night tides are the highest in the north-east monsoon, and the day tides in the south-west : consequently, they are strongest. The rise from low water at Hongkong is $7\frac{1}{2}$ ft., except in strong east and southeast winds. A tide of ten feet rise at Canton or Whampoa is generally owing to a fresh, or to a strong favorable wind.

Principal Festivals observed by the Chinese.

Jan. 6th, 1854.—XIIth moon, 8th day. Ancient festival of the prince and his officers going on the annual hunt. Also of the Jūlai Budha.

Jan. 22d.—XIIth moon, 24th day. The god of the Furnace ascends to heaven to report upon the conduct of the family to the Perfect August Sháng-tí; hence people pay their adorations to that deity, and sié tsáu, 'thank the furnace.' In some parts of China, this Sháng-tí is regarded as the supreme god in the Chinese pantheon, and it is supposed the other deities derive their power and position from him. This popular superstition, though not peculiar to any class, seems most closely allied to the Táu sect.

Jan. 28th.—XIIth moon, 29th day. All the gods descend to the earth.

Jan. 29th.—Ist moon, 1st day. Yuen tán, the first morning, or new-year's day. The period of new-year is almost the only time of universal holiday in China. Other times and seasons are regarded only by a few, or by particular classes—but the new-year is accompanied with a general cessation from business. The officer, the merchant, and the laborer, all equally desist from work, and zealously engage in visiting and feasting,—occasionally making offerings at the temples of those deities whose peculiar aid they wish to implore. Government offices are nominally closed for about ten days before, and twenty days after new-year; during which period none but very important business is transacted. On the last evening of the year, all tradesmen's bills and small debts are paid, and an inability to pass this time of settlement injures a man's credit and usually results in insolvency; while too, the custom, by compelling an annual settlement of accounts, prevents many failures. This is perhaps the reason why newyear's eve is called chú seih, 'the evening of dismissal.'

Jan. 30th.—1st moon, 2d day. Ché Tá-yuen shwái; a deified warrior.

Feb. 3d.—1st moon, 6th day. Ting-kwáng, a Buddhist sage, born.

Feb. 4th.—1st moon, 7th day.—Jin-jih, or 'man-day.' The first ten days of the year are named after various animals, 'fowl-day,' 'dog-day,' &c., of which the seventh, 'man-day,' is the greatest. Some persons have supposed there is an obscure or ancient reference in these days to the order followed at the creation.

Feb. 4th.—1st moon, 7th day. Leih-chun term, or Festival of Spring. This day, the period of the sun reaching the 15th degree in Aquarius, is one of the chief days of the Chinese calendar, and is celebrated with great pomp as well by the government as by the people. In every capital city, there are made, at this period, two clay images of a man and a buffalo. The day previous to the festival, the chí-fú, or chief city magistrate, goes out to ying chun, or 'meet the spring;' on which occasion children are carried about on men's shoulders, each vying with his neighbor in the gorgeousness and fancifulness of the children's dresses. The following day, being the day of the festival, the prefect again appears as the priest of Spring, in which capacity he is, for the day, the first man in the province. Hence the chief officers do not move from home on this day. After he has struck the buffalo with a whip two or three times, in token of commencing the labors of agriculture, the populace then stone the image, till they break it in pieces, and many of them carry off pieces of the clay, or the little images concealed in the inside, to put on their fields under the impression that a better crop will thereby be obtained. The festivities continue ten days in some parts of the country, but the degree of ceremony attending this festival differs greatly in different parts of China; in Canton, it is not attended with much display.

Feb. 6th.—1st moon, 9th day. Yuh-hwáng Shángtí's birthday; this deity is the highest of the Táu sect, and more than any other answers in the Chinese mythology to the Zeus of the Greeks.

Feb. 7.—1st moon, 10th day. Wú tú shin-kiun, five lares of the household; they are this day placed on the ground in various quarters of the house for its protection; and the ceremony is repeated on the tenth of the four following months.

Feb 12th.—1st moon, 15th day.—Shái-tang, or feast of lanterns, so called by Europeans. At night all classes illuminate the temples, shops, &c., with fanciful lanterns, and assemble at convivial parties, called lantern feasts. Offerings of lanterns are made at the temples of the gods. This festival is observed at Canton by merely hanging a lantern before the shop or house, and passes without any particular parade.

Feb. 16th.—1st moon, 19th day. Chang-chun, a celebrated physician born; deified by the Táuists. His shrine is placed in doctor's shops.

Feb. 18th.—1st moon, 21st day. Two images of children are placed behind the doors of dwellings for protecting it, and increasing the prosperity of the inmates; they are called Shen tsái tungtsz'.

Feb. 28th.—11d moon, 2d day. The household gods born. These are called Tú-tí, and also Fuh-shin, gods of happiness; they include all classes of household deities. At this period plays are performed at the public offices and in the streets; while rockets and other fireworks are let off.

March 1st.—Ild moon, 3d day. Wanchang tí kiun, god of Learning born. His image is placed in the temples of Confucius, in the small three-storied pagodas frequent in villages, and in the offices of literary magistrates; scholars worship him.

March 4th.—Ild moon, 6th day. Tung-wá Tí-kiun born; a god of the Táu sect.

March 11th.—Ild moon, 13th day. Hungshing, god of the South Sea, born. This is a southern deity, whose worship is chiefly confined to Canton, where it is celebrated with much pomp and display. Same day is the birthday of Yoh Fí, a faithful minister of the Sung dynasty.

March 13th.—Ild moon, 15th day. Láukiun born. Láukiun, called also Láu-tsz', an ancient sage, and the founder of the Táu sect, was partly contemporary with Confucius. The latter in his youth took lessons from Láutsz' on the subject of sacrificial rites. The principal deities of the Táu sect are San Tsing, three Pure Ones,—Shangtí, a supreme ruler, subordinate to those three, and a multitude of inferior gods and deified men.

March 17th.—Ild moon, 19th day. Kwányin's birthday; she is often called the Goddess of mercy, and is the great goddess of the Buddhists. Next to the God of Fire, there are supposed to be more temples erected to this idol in the city of Canton than to any other.

March 23d.—Ild moon, 25th day. Hiuen-tien shing fú, birthday of the father of the Shángtí of the Sombre Heavens; a god of the Táu sect.

March 31st.—IIld moon, 3d day. Hiuen-tien Shangtí, the Supreme Ruler of the Sombre Heavens; the festival of the second deity in the pantheon of the Rationalists. He is also usually called Peh-tí, god of the North Pole, and his temples are numerous and the festival is very generally observed.

April.—About the middle of this month, on a fortunate day in the 3d moon, the grand agricultural ceremony is performed, at Peking by the emperor and his ministers, and in all the provinces by the head officers of the government. The ceremony consists in holding a plough, highly ornamented, which is kept for the purpose, while the bullock which drags it is led over a given space. The rule is that the emperor ploughs three furrows; the princes five; and the high ministers, nine. These furrows are, however, so very short, that the later monarchs of the present dynasty have altered the ancient rule laid down by the predecessors of Confucius, ploughing four furrows, and returning again over the ground. The ceremony finished, the emperor and his ministers repair to the terrace for inspecting the agricultural labors; and remain till the whole field has been ploughed by husbandmen. The emperor often appoints a proxy.

April 5th.—IIld moon, 8th day. Tsing-ming term,—festival of the tombs. At this period of the year the Chinese everywhere repair to the tombs with offerings of food, which after the spirits of the deceased have fed on the spiritual portion, they themselves partake of. The weather at this time being usually fine, the weeds and dirt are cleared away from the tombs, and any repairs requisite in the brickwork are made. From this custom, the rite is often called Sau fan, or Sweeping the Tombs. Long slips of paper representing money are laid on the grave after the ceremonies are over, as a proof that the sacrifices have been made.

- April 11th.—IIId moon, 14th day. Chung-yang Wú tan born.
- April 12th.—IIId moon, 15th day. Hiun-tan Yuen-shwai born; worshiped in households. I-ling Tai-tí born: a celebrated physician worshiped by sick persons.
- April 15th.—IIId moon, 18th day. Hau-tí Niángniáng, the goddess of earth.
- April 17th.—IIId moon, 20th day. Tsz'-sun Niáng-niáng, the goddess of children, worshiped by those who wish children.
- April 20th.—IIId moon, 23d day. Tien hau, or the Queen of Heaven, born. This female deity was a native of Fuhkien; and has become the goddess of sailors, who are mostly of that province. She corresponds in many respects to the Amphitrite of the Greeks, though some of her names and attributes seem to have been derived from the Virgin Mary. Her temples are numerous, and her worship is costly and very general among maritime people.
- May 4th.—IVth moon, 8th day. San kiái Shing-yé, or Holy Lords of the three Borders; worshiped in the yards of the courts of houses to propitiate the powers of nature.—Same day is the festival of the present Budha, Shihkia Jü-lái.
- May 10th.—IVth moon, 14th day. Lui-shun-yáng sien, one of the eight genii, also called Lui-tung pin.
- May 11th.—IVth moon, 15th day. Chung-lí tsú-sz', one of the eight genii.
- May 13th.—IVth moon, 17th day. Kin-hwa fá-jin, the Juno Lucina of the Cantonese; women worship her when with child, and also for aid in childbirth. She is supposed to have originated in Canton, and a famous temple to her is built within the Old City. Another temple to this goddess is situated opposite the Foreign Factories in the suburb of Honan.
- May 14th.—IVth moon, 18th day. Wa To siensz', a celebrated physician, spoken of in the San Kwoh Chí; worshiped by the sick.
- May 16th.—IVth moon, 20th day. Yen-kwáng Shing-mú, Holy Mother of Bright Eyes; a goddess worshiped by the blind, and those with diseased eyes.
- May 24th.—IVth moon, 28th day. Yoh Wáng, king of Medicine; the Esculapius of Chinese mythology.
- May 27th.—Vth moon, 1st day. Nán-kih Tá-tí, the Great Ruler of the South Pole; a god of the Rationalists.
- May 31st.—Vth moon, 5th day. Festival of dragon boats, called in Chinese, Twán-wú or Twán-yáng, and also Nien-chung. On this day, many people race backwards and forwards in long narrow boats, which being variously painted and ornamented so as to resemble dragons, are called lung chuen, 'dragon boats.' From the narrowness of the boats, and the number of persons on board, there being sometimes from sixty to eighty paddles, it not unfrequently happens that several of the boats break in two; so that the festivities seldom conclude without the loss of several lives. The magistrates endeavor to repress the ardor of the people by issuing their prohibitions, but the people are led on by the excitement. The races are attended by thousands, and rowers are inspirited by the sound of drums and pipes; these noises are supposed to terrify evil spirits and ward off disease, consequently, the sports are attended with double zest when sickness prevails. Tradesmen's accounts are cleared off at this period.

June 30th.—VIth moon, 6th day. Sai í-fuh, festival of Airing Clothes. It is a fancy that clothes aired on this day are not liable to be injured by insects.

July 7th.—VIth moon, 13th day. Lú-pán, the god of Carpenters and Masons, on which day, these craftsmen take a holiday. Tsing-shin Lung-wang, god of Wells and Dragon-king, worshiped by sailors and others, to avert calamity and storms.

July 10th.—VIth moon, 16th day. Wáng-ling-kwán shing; a deified statesman worshiped for averting punishment.

July 13th.—VIth moon, 19th day. Assumption of Kwanyin; she ascends to heaven.

July 17th.—VIth moon, 23d day. God of Fire born. This deity is frequently propitiated by exhibition of plays. In China there are few regular theaters; sheds are erected in the streets, and a platform being raised about five feet above the ground, the spectators all stand in the street in front; the expenses are paid by private subscription, usually of several merchants. Gentlemen have them also at their own houses, where in some instances there are substantial buildings erected for the performance of the players, and the accommodation of persons invited to see the play. Even in this case, an open space is left for the free admission of the people. Almost all the theatrical performances of the Chinese are held on the birthday or festival of some god, and are therefore of a religious character. They are particularly numerous in honor of Wá Kwáng, the god of Fire.—Also Kwan-shing Tai-tí, the Chinese God of War, died. Má Wáng-shin, the God of Horses, worshiped to avert disease from horses, and by horsemen to become skillful in equestrian feats.

July 25th.—VIIth moon, 1st day. Sháu-i, or Burning-clothes festival. At this period, which lasts fifteen days, clothes made of various colored papers are burnt, that they may so pass to the invisible world, for the benefit of deceased relatives. Prayers also are recited and food offered, chiefly for those who have been drowned at sea. This festival is much observed by the people of Fuhkien province. The custom arises from a tradition respecting a young man who obtained admission to Tartarus, and brought his mother from thence.

July 31st.—VIIth moon, 7th day. Tsih kung sien-nü, the female genii of the seven palaces descend; a festival observed by women, who worship these fairies to avert disease, and get skill in domestic work.

Aug. 15th.—VIIth moon, 22d day. Tsang-fuh Tsái-shin, god of Happiness and Wealth; placed in niches at the doors of shops. This deity, the Plutus of the Chinese, is seldom carved into an image, but a piece of paper is pasted on the back of a niche near the door; the shrine is called tsü páu táng, i. e. Hall of Collected Values.

Aug. 17th.—VIIth moon, 24th day. Tú-ching-hwáng tán, festival of the Municipal Deity of the City, worshiped by officers and people; he might be termed the Palladium Deity, as he has a temple in every walled city in China. On this day, the Cantonese take a holiday, and resort to a temple on the White Cloud Hills northeast of the city, in great numbers, to worship Ching-sien, a deified official of the Ming dynasty.

Aug. 23d.—VIIth moon, 30th day. Tí-tsang wáng, a deified Buddhist worshiped for remission of sins.

Sept. 22d.—VIIIth moon, 1st day. Autumn festival commences. This festival continues from the 1st to the 16th of the moon, during which period families visit and feast with each other, and friends interchange presents of moon cakes. These are round white cakes, with figures of men and women painted on them; they derive their name from a legend of an emperor of the Tang dynasty, who being led one night to the palace of the moon, saw there a large assemblage of female divinities, dancing and playing on instruments of music; on his return he instituted plays in commemoration of it.

Sept. 23d.—VIIIth moon, 2d day. Shé-tuh Tá-wáng, great Prince of the Agricultural Gods.

Sept. 24th.—VIIIth moon, 3d day. Sz'-ning tsáu-kiun, the Lord who orders the Prince of the Furnace; worshiped to preserve the health of the household.

Sept. 26th.—VIIIth moon, 5th day. Lui-shing Tá-tí, god of Thunder.

Oct. 6th.—VIIIth moon, 15th day. Chung-tsiú, mid-autumn. This being the middle day of autumn, is the chief day of the autumnal festival; oblations are made to the moon on this day. On the following day young people amuse themselves by 'pursuing the moon'; it is also called ho yueh, congratulating the moon. On the evening of this day, every householder and boatman raises a lantern upon the top of a high pole from the highest part of his house or vessel, on which is inscribed king ho chung tsiú, 'joyfully congratulate the middle of autumn.' From the great display of lanterns made on this occasion, the festival is usually called at Canton by foreigners, the Feast of Lanterns.

Oct. 22d.—IXth moon, 1st day. Nán-tau sing-kiun, Starry god of the South Pole, descends; this god belongs to the sect of Rationalists.

Oct. 30th.—IXth moon, 9th day. Tau-mú yuen-kiun, Mother of the Dipper; a goddess adored to obtain happiness and long life. This day is also observed as a time to visit the graves, and for children to fly kites; it is called from this, tang káu, 'ascending on high.' The Cantonese amuse themselves on this day by throwing up rockets, and striving who shall catch the descending stick, which the lucky person keeps till the next year.

October.—It is in this month, on a fortunate day of the 9th moon, that the empress, either personally, or by proxy, accompanied by a train of princesses and honorable ladies, repairs to the altar sacred to the discoverer of silkworms. After sacrificing, the empress with golden, and the princesses with silver implements, collect mulberry leaves to feed the imperial silkworms. They then wind off some cocoons of silk, and so end the ceremony. This very ancient festival is considered as the counterpart of the agricultural one observed by the emperor in the spring.

Nov. 7th.—IXth moon, 17th day. Sien-fung Yáng-sz' yé-yé, lord of the Front Spear; worshiped to obtain success and profit in life and business.

Nov. 9th.—IXth moon, 28th day. Wa-kwáng Tá-tí, god of Fire; worshiped by all classes with great parade to preserve houses and shops from fire. The temples dedicated to this idol in the city of Canton are more numerous than to any other deity.

Nov. 18th.—Xth moon, 1st day. Tung-hwang Tá-tí, Eastern August Great Ruler; a god of the Rationalists.

Nov. 20th—28th.—Xth moon, 1st to 9th day. The nine gods of the Great Bear descend; worshiped by the Rationalists, and generally also by the people, tradesmen, and others, for peace. This period is usually chosen for worshipping wandering spirits as well as these gods; the rites are called Tá-tsiáu. They are in Canton, among the most showy idolatrous ceremonies. Three or four streets combine, and ornament the streets with chandeliers, puppets, festoons, and scrolls, and fit up a room for religious exercises to appease the wandering kwei.

Dec. 4th.—Xth moon, 15th day. Tau shin Liú sz, 'god of Small-pox; his name was Liú, and he is accommodated with a niche in other temples.

Dec. 16th.—Xth moon, 27th day. Peh-kih Tsz'-wí. Also Wú Yoh, Wú Tí, the festival of the gods of the Five Hills and the Five Rulers, names of five places and five deities collectively worshiped. The Five Hills are Tái shan in Shantung, Hang shan in Húnan, Hwa shan in Shensi, Hang shan in Chihlí, and Sung shan in Honan. The Five Rulers are the Azure, Red, Yellow, White and Black, Shángtí.

Dec. 22d.—The tung chí, or winter solstice, a festival observed by all classes; it is also called cháng chí tsieh, or the time when the long days come, because then the sun begins to return, and the days grow longer. Officers go in state to worship the emperor's tablet, and the people adore their lares.

Dec. 23d.—XIth moon, 4th day. Confucius born; his festival is observed by officers of government and scholars, who repair to his temple.

Jan. 4th, 1855.—XIth moon, 16th day. Festival of Kwányin. She has three during the year, all of which are observed by the people.

Jan. 5th.—XIth moon, 17th day.—Ometo Fuh, the present Budha.

June 5th. Rev. C. Taylor M. D. visits the insurgent forces at Chinkiang fú, and is kindly entertained by Lo, one of the subordinate leaders, then in command of the city. The following paper is sent to Shanghai by him :—

"Lo, the Fifth Arranger of the Forces attached to the palace of the Celestial Dynasty of Taiping, who have received the command of Heaven to rule the empire,—communicates the following information to all his English brethren.

On the first day of the 5th moon (June 5th), a brother belonging to your honorable nation, named Charles Taylor, brought hither a number of books, which have been received in order. Seeing that the abovenamed individual is a follow-worshiper of God (Shang-tí), he is therefore acknowledged as a brother: the books likewise which he has brought agree substantially with our own, so that it appears we follow one and the same road. Formerly, however, when a ship belonging to your honorable nation came hither, (the Hermes), she was followed by a fleet of impish vessels belonging to the false Tartars: now also, when a boat from your honorable nation comes among us, the impish vessels of the Tartars again follow in its wake. Considering that your honorable nation is celebrated for its truth and fidelity, we, your younger brothers, do not harbor any suspicions. At present both Heaven and men favor our design, and this is just the time for setting up the Chinese and abolishing the Tartar rule. We suppose that you, gentlemen, are well acquainted with the signs of the times, so that we need not enlarge on that subject; but while we, on our parts, do not prohibit commercial intercourse, we merely observe, that since the two parties are now engaged in warfare, the going to and fro is accompanied with inconvenience; and judging from the present aspect of affairs, we should deem it better to wait a few months, until we have thoroughly destroyed the Tartars, when, perhaps, the subjects of your honorable nation could go and come without being involved in the tricks of these false Tartars. Would it not in your estimation, also, be preferable? We take advantage of the opportunity to send you this communication for your intelligent inspection, and hope that every blessing may attend you. We also send a number of our own books, which please to circulate amongst you."—China Mail.

July 7th. H. E. Sir Geo. Bonham notifies British subjects who engage in warlike operations in China, that the penalties of Acts of Parliament relating to such acts, will be put in force against offenders.

July 14th. Commodore Perry delivers the Letter from the President of the United States to two Princes commissioned by the Emperor of Japan, at Goriama near Uraga :—

"The squadron, consisting of the steam-frigates Susquehanna and Mississippi, and the sloops-of-war Plymouth and Saratoga, sailed from the harbor of Napa-kiang, in Lewchew, on the 2d of July. On the morning of the 8th they made Cape Idzu, near the southern entrance of the Bay of Yedo, and sailing directly up the bay, anchored in the afternoon off the town of Uraga, more than a mile beyond the former anchorage of the Morrison and Columbus. The appearance of the steamers—the first ever seen in Japanese waters—with the other vessels in tow, moving with all sails furled, at the rate of nine or ten knots an hour, appeared to produce considerable sensation among the Japanese, and all the trading junks, with which the bay was crowded, carefully kept out of their way.

“As the vessels were coming to anchor, two shells or rockets were fired into the air from a battery about a mile distant, but apparently as a signal, and not a token of hostility. Several government boats immediately came off, and endeavored to put on board the vessels the usual notification to foreigners warning them to depart. They were not received, however, and the Deputy Governor of Uraga, who was the only person allowed to come on board, was notified that if the Japanese authorities endeavored to surround the ships with the usual cordon of boats, it would lead to very serious consequences. A few boats, nevertheless, lingered around the Susquehanna, but the sight of some warlike preparations satisfied them that Commodore Perry was in earnest, and they quickly retired. During the stay of the squadron in the bay, it was never afterwards visited by any boats, except those containing the officials through whom the negotiations were carried on. The next morning, Yezaimon, the Governor of Uraga, with official interpreters, came off, and after ascertaining the object of the visit, asked for time to dispatch an express to Yedo, in order to communicate the information, and obtain instructions how to act. During the three days which elapsed before the answer arrived, the Mississippi made a trip about ten miles further up the bay, finding everywhere deep soundings. Beyond the promontory of Uraga, a point which no foreign vessel had passed before, she discovered a large and beautiful bight, which was perfectly landlocked, and offered the most secure and commodious anchorage. She was followed at a distance by a number of government boats, but none of them attempted to interfere with her, or with the cutters of the different vessels, while sounding in advance of her. The presence of the squadron appeared to cause no interruption to the inland commerce, for the bay was at all times studded with large junks and hundreds of small craft, passing up and down.

“On Tuesday, the 12th, an answer arrived from Yedo, stating that the Emperor had appointed an officer of the highest rank to proceed to Uraga, and receive the letter of the President of the United States; and satisfactory proofs having been given to Commodore Perry, that this appointment came directly from the Imperial Government, it was arranged that the interview should take place on the morning of the 14th. We understand that the Commodore was first informed, on his arrival, that Nagasaki was the proper point from which to negotiate with the Japanese Government; but he replied, that a request to proceed thither would be an insult to his government.

“The Japanese selected the small town of Gori-hama, about three miles south of Uraga, for the interview. On the morning of the 14th, the Susquehanna and Mississippi took up a position off the town, and lay with their broadsides to the shore. The Governor and Deputy-Governor of Uraga, with the Commandant of the military forces, came off to accompany the Commodore to the landing-place. Three houses had been erected by the Japanese, one of which was prepared for the interview, while the other two were apparently intended for the accommodation of the Princes who had come from Yedo to receive the letter. The officers and men detailed to accompany Commodore Perry, amounted to about four hundred, while the force of the Japanese was variously estimated at from five to seven thousand. Their foremost files extended around the head of the bight, for the distance of nearly a mile, and with their numbers of scarlet pennons, and banners of various devices, presented a novel and beautiful show. The Commodore was escorted, with the American colors flying, and the bands playing the national “Hail Columbia,” to the house of reception. Here he was received by the Prince of Idzu, first counsellor of the Emperor, who was accompanied by the Prince of Iwami. The letter of the President and Commodore Perry’s letter of credence were formally delivered, and an official receipt given in return by the two Princes. The interview then terminated, as the latter were not empowered to enter into any negotiations. The Commodore stated, however, that in order to give the Japanese Government ample time for deliberation, he would depart in three or four days, and return in a few months to receive the reply. We may here mention, that this was the only instance in which Commodore Perry met any of the Japanese officials in person. The Governor of Uraga was not received by him, as not being of equal rank, and all the previous and subsequent negotiations with the Japanese were carried on through the officers of the Commodore's staff and Captain Buchanan of the Susquehanna.

"The Governor and Deputy Governor of Uraga, with the interpreters and attendants, after the interview, were treated to a trip in the Susquehanna, where they witnessed for the first time the performance of the steam-engine. After leaving them at Uraga, the squadron stood across the bay towards the eastern shore, and then proceeded to the point reached by the Mississippi, about ten miles above Uraga. On the following day, Commodore Perry, in the Mississippi, went about ten miles beyond this,—making a total distance of twenty miles beyond the limit of previous exploration. From the deck of the frigate a crowd of shipping was seen, seven or eight miles to the northward; and from the numbers of junks continually going and coming, it was evident that this was the anchorage in front of the capital. The officers of the Susquehanna and Mississippi speak with admiration of the beauty of the shores, and the rich cultivation and luxuriant vegetation which they everywhere witnessed. The natives with whom they came in contract were friendly in their demeanor, and the Governor of Uraga is spoken of as a model of refinement and good-breeding.

"The day before the departure of the squadron, the Governor went on board the Susquehanna, taking with him a number of presents, consisting of articles of lacquered-ware, and other Japanese manufactures. A suitable collection of presents was prepared in return, and in spite of his declaration that it was contrary to Japanese law, he was obliged to accept them, in order to prevent the rejection of his own. He afterwards brought off a quantity of poultry for the vessel, and received in return a large box of choice American garden seeds, his acceptance of the presents on the previous visit having to his great joy, been sanctioned by his superiors. Notwithstanding the repeated concessions which the Japanese made to the demands of Commodore Perry, they are said to have been very cordial and friendly in their intercourse, and to have taken their final leave with a show of real regret."—China Mail.

Weights, &c., in use among the Chinese.

IN China, most unmanufactured articles are sold by weight, not excepting liquids, wood, silk, cloth, and live stock. Grain is, however, retailed by measure. The minor decimal weights are used in weighing bullion, pearls, precious stones, valuable drugs, &c. There are three instruments for weighing, viz., the balances, steelyards, and money-scales. Balances are used for weighing large sums of money; standard weights made of brass are furnished by the Board of Revenue at Peking, from 100 taels down to one cash. The steelyard is made of wood, marked off into catties, mace, &c.; the largest of them will weigh two or three peculs; it is called dotchin by foreigners, a word corrupted from tok-ching, to weigh. The counterpoise is usually a piece of stone; so common is its use, that no one goes to market without carrying his dotchin. The money-scales is a small ivory yard like the dotchin, and is used to weigh money, pearls, and small things.

The chih (cubit, coid, or Chinese foot) fixed by the Mathematical Board at Peking is 13.125 English inches; that used by tradesmen at Canton varies from 14.625 to 14.81 inches; that employed by the engineers of public works is 12.7 inches, and that by which distances are usually measured is 12.1 nearly. At Canton an English yard, or má, is reckoned at 2 chih 4 tsun, which makes the English foot equal to 8 tsun. The chih is reckoned in the new tariff at 14.1 English inches, which is about the average length of this measure in Canton; this rate makes the cháng to be 141 inches, or $3\frac{1}{2}$ yds.; the usual length of a cháng in Canton is a very little over 4 yds., though some of them are but a little over 11 feet. The foot-rule of tailors is called pái-tsien chih, and the shorter one of masons, chau-tung chih. The cháng of these craftsmen varies according the chih.

The weights known among the Chinese are as follows:—

- 1 kernel of millet (一粒黍) is one 黍 shú;
- 10 shú or kernels of millet make one 釐 lui;
- 10 lui 釐 make one 銖 chú, or pearl;
- 24 chú make one tael 兩 liáng, or $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. avoirdupois.
- 16 taels make one catty 斤 kin, or $1\frac{1}{3}$ lb. avoirdupois.
- 2 catties make one 引 yin;
- 30 catties make one 鈞 kiun;
- 100 catties make one pecul 擔 tán (lit. a load), weighing $133\frac{1}{3}$ lb. av.
- 120 catties sometimes make one stone 石 shih; usually only a pecul.

The money weights are liáng, tsien, fan, and li, or taels, mace, candareens, and cash, decreasing in a decimal proportion; the copper coin called cash is named tsien, because it originally weighed a mace. In the two next tables, the rate of 717 taels to $1000 is the common exchange at Canton. In estimating cash, 50 or 100 are usually reckoned at 4 or 8 cents, when paying small sums.

Notices of Villages west of Canton.

I. VILLAGES ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE MACAO PASSAGE.

Fong Chün 芳村 is on the first creek running from the north end of the Macao passage towards Fá-te. It is approached by a stone walk from the river, 500 yards in length, winding through groves of fruit trees and flower gardens. There are 2000 inhabitants of the surnames Tsié, 謝 Laong, 梁 Chin, 陳 and a few families of other surnames. The village was first settled during the Ming dynasty. There are four ancestral halls, one large temple, and four boys' schools of ten scholars each. The village is built on low marshy ground, the houses are much dilapidated, and the streets in a poor condition. The men are principally employed in cultivating the gardens and fields in the neighborhood. A great number of the women busy themselves in braiding silk cords, bands, and working embroidery for Chinese shoes.

Many of the inhabitants are poor, and not a few gamblers and idlers among them, who are very rude and turbulent in their behavior.

Choong How 涌口 is built on both sides of the second creek running towards Fá-te on the west side of the Macao Passage, nearly opposite the Aviary Fort on the Honam side. There are 4000 inhabitants of the surnames Haw 何 and Pang 彭; three ancestral halls, one temple, three boys' schools of twelve scholars each, twenty small shops, and several fruit gardens. The inhabitants are principally farmers, but idle men and boys are numerous, who are uncommonly rude and abusive in their treatment of foreigners.

Tun Tow 塹頭 a small cluster of brick and mud houses lying half way between Choong How and Sha Choong, is the third village on the west side of the Macao Passage. It is approached from the river by a stone walk 500 yards in length. It was settled during the Ming dynasty, and has now 250 inhabitants of the Ching 鄭 clan. There is one ancestral hall and one small temple built in the 12th year of the Emperor Kiaking, A.D. 1808. There is no school, and only two shops in the village. About twenty men are employed in manufacturing small rice bowls from the wood of the olive tree. One workman turns off with a lathe, on an average, fifty bowls a day. There is also an establishment for the preparation of the cosmetic used by Chinese ladies to improve their complexion. The gypsum from which it is manufactured is brought from quarries in the western part of the province, and ground in a mill worked by bullocks. The villagers are quiet and friendly in their behavior.

Sha Choong 沙涌 is the fourth village on the west side of the Macao Passage, about 800 yards from the shore, and is reached by a winding path through paddy fields. There are 1000 inhabitants of the clans Ching 鄭 and Laong 梁 who commenced the settlement of the village during the Sung Dynasty about A.D. 1200. The ancestral halls are three; idol temples, three; shops three; and one school of twelve boys. The villagers are partly farmers, and partly employed as coolies in the city. Braiding silk cord of various colors is a common employment of the women. Strangers are treated with civility in this village.

Pak Hok Tong 白鶴洞 is the fourth village on the west side of the Macao Passage, seven hundred yards from the shore. It was settled during the Sung Dynasty about A.D. 1200. There are 2500 inhabitants of the surname 吳 Ng; five ancestral halls, two small temples, three boys' schools of six, twelve, and sixteen scholars each. The shops are few, most of the villagers being employed in cultivating the neighboring fields, which produce taro, tomato, melons, egg-plant, sweet-potatoes, and the white jasmine used for flavoring tea. North and west of the village are low hills which are either cultivated in terraces to the top, or used for burying the dead. The village is compactly built, and the houses and streets kept in good repair. The people, with two or three exceptions, are civil and friendly in their treatment of foreigners. Very few idlers, and no gamblers or gambling shops are to be seen.

Tung Long 東垠 is situated west of the Sha Eue Fort 沙腰炮臺 and small pagoda in the Macao Passage. There are 2500 inhabitants of the surnames Haw 何, Wong 黃, and Kwán 關; four ancestral halls, one village council hall, three boys' schools of nineteen, twelve, and eight scholars each. A market for the neighboring villages is held here nine days in each month, the 1st, 4th, 7th, &c. of the Chinese month being the market days. The people are generally civil in their deportment, but they are poor, and one gambling shop finds constant attendants. There is a battery of ten cast iron and four large brass guns in front of the village, facing the river.

Chay Ke 樵基 a small cluster of mud houses at the mouth of the creek opposite the "Chay May" fort and small pagoda in the Macao Passage. The population numbers 250 persons of various surnames, who are employed in fishing and farming. There is only one school of six scholars. The people are civil and kindly disposed to strangers. Dr. Chun 陳 is the principal man of respectability and influence in the village.

Tun Kauk 墩脚 also called Sun Tsauk 新爵, is a few hundred yards southwest of Tung Long, and about a quarter of a mile from the entrance of the creek. It was settled during the middle of the Ming dynasty, A. D. 1500. There are 2500 inhabitants of the surname Ng 吳; four ancestral halls, one temple, twelve shops, and three schools for boys of seventeen, fourteen and ten scholars each. The dwellings are generally well built, and the streets kept in good repair. The villagers are farmers, civil and friendly in their deportment.

Háng How 坑口 is an inland village situated one mile west of Pak Hok Tong. There are 2500 inhabitants, the principal surnames being Kwok 郭 and Chun 陳; it is approached by a pathway from Pak Hok Tong, winding over low hills, which are in part cultivated and partly used as cemeteries. Many acres of ground in the neighborhood of this village are covered with the tea plant, from which the leaves are picked three or four times yearly. The inhabitants were formerly employed in the silk business, but not finding it profitable exchanged it for the cultivation of the tea plant. There are four ancestral halls, six shops, a large pawnbroker's establishment, and four schools with fifty scholars. The villagers are quiet in their behavior and civil to strangers.

II. VILLAGES ON THE EAST SIDE OF THE MACAO PASSAGE.

Heen Hok Chün 蜆殼村 is the first village beyond the Aviary fort on the east side of the Macao Passage. It was settled during the reign of the Emperor Kanghe 康熙 about A.D. 1680. There are now 600 inhabitants of various surnames, one ancestral hall, two small temples, one boys' school of ten scholars, and six establishments for the manufacture of brick and tiles. Most of the villagers are employed in the brick-kilns. A few are averse to the visits of foreigners. This village is easily distinguished from others in the Macao Passage by the clouds of black smoke almost constantly rising from the furnaces.

Nam Shek Tow 南石頭 is a small poor village on the southwest side of Honam. It was settled during the Ming dynasty, and has now 300 inhabitants, mostly of the surname Choong 鍾 who are engaged in agriculture. There is one ancestral hall, and a boys' school of ten scholars. On the north side of the village is a fort to which there is free admittance, having a battery of fourteen guns. The people of this village are quite civil to strangers.

Nam Ke Chün 南箕村 is at the southwest corner of Honam, half a mile south of Nam Shek Tow, and the third from the Aviary fort. Its settlement was commenced at the close of the Sung dynasty, about A. D. 1270. There are now 2500 inhabitants of the surnames Tung 鄧, Sew 蕭, and Le 李; four ancestral halls, two boys' schools of nineteen and sixteen scholars each, and eight or ten shops. The majority of the villagers are agriculturists, the remainder being engaged in trade at Canton. Opium smokers and idlers abound in this village, and their disposition towards foreigners is not of the most friendly nature.

III. VILLAGES AT AND BEYOND FA-TE.

Che Ngon 峙岸 is a small hamlet at the entrance of the Fa-Te creek, and is situated directly east of the temple of the Flower King. It was settled during the present dynasty about 1650 A. D. The entrance to it from the river is by a granite gateway and path, which leads by a handsome garden and Buddhist temple. There are 250 inhabitants of the surname Sew 蕭; one small temple, and a school of ten boys kept by the lively and loquacious teacher Foong 馮.

Chák Kai 策溪 also called Chák Tow 策頭 lies east of Howqua's garden, and is entirely surrounded by a narrow creek. It was settled during the Sung dynasty about A. D. 1200. There are 1000 inhabitants, the principal surnames being Law 羅 Soo 蘇 and Kwok 郭; two ancestral halls, one temple, ten shops, and three boys' schools of twenty, twelve and ten scholars each. Most of the men are employed in cultivating the flower gardens in the neighborhood. Braiding silk cord of forty nine threads furnishes employment to many of the women, several of whom are good readers. The general appearance of the village is poor and unthrifty, the houses and streets being much out of repair. The villagers are civil in their treatment of foreigners, excepting a few idle boys who behave rudely to strangers.

Chá Kow 茶濠 is the first village beyond Fá-Te on the east side of the branch of the river which comes in from the south. It is reached by a stone path from the river 300 yards in length. The village is built on both sides of a creek which runs from the Macao Passage to Fá-Te, and was settled during the Ming dynasty about A. D. 1500. On the east side of the creek reside the Eem 嚴 clan, numbering about 400 persons. There is one ancestral hall, and one school of twelve boys in this cluster of houses. On the west side is the Li 黎 clan numbering about 2000 persons. In this cluster are two ancestral halls, one temple, and a school of twelve boys. The inhabitants are principally farmers, many of whom cultivate the white jasmine used for flavoring tea. The women earn a little money by braiding silk cord, and making the linen and cotton garments of foreigners. Fifty or more are employed in the latter business. The village is built on low ground, so that during summer freshets, the lower floors of the dwellings are flooded. The villagers are generally polite and friendly to foreigners.

Fun Shui 汾水 the second village beyond Fá-Te, on the east side, lies south of Cha Kow one quarter of a mile, and is reached by a path from the shore 800 yards in length winding through rice fields. A grove of water firs encircling the village, hides it from the view of persons passing on the river. There are 600 inhabitants of the surname Kán 簡 two ancestral halls; one temple; one school of nine boys; and three or four small shops. The villagers are gardeners and civil in their behavior to strangers. The houses are well built, and the streets rather cleaner than Chinese village streets are usually kept.

Tái Tun 大墘 the third village beyond Fá-Te is half a mile south of Cha Kow, and separated from Tung Kow by a narrow creek. The village was settled about 560 years ago, during the Sung dynasty by the Law 羅 clan. They now number 360 persons, have two ancestral halls, two temples, one small three story pagoda, four shops, and a school of nine boys, which is kept in one of the ancestral halls. Most of the men are farmers, or employed as coolies in the city. Many of the women are busy in braiding silk cord for Chinese shoes, and making cotton garments for foreigners. The villagers are friendly disposed towards foreigners.

Tung Kow 東濠 is situated about half a mile south of Chá Kow, and is approached by a creek at the entrance of which stands a small three story pagoda. There are 2500 inhabitants of the Kwok 郭 clan, who are principally farmers; nine schools; six or more ancestral halls, and several small temples. The dwelling-houses are better built and the village has a cleaner appearance than other villages in the neighborhood. Ten of the villagers have emigrated to California.

Sun Hoi Kow 新開噶 a small village at the extreme southern point of the island west of Honam. It is built on both sides of a creek and has 600 inhabitants, two ancestral halls, one of the Chun 陳 clan, the other of the Lum 林 clan; two boys' schools, twenty scholars in each. The villagers are employed in fishing and farming, by which they barely obtain a subsistence. The buildings are small, and being built on ground made of mud thrown up from the river, are liable to be injured by freshets.

Muk Chün 麥村 lies a mile southeast of Tung Kow, and was settled during the Ming dynasty. It is reached by a pathway 400 yards in length from the river, commencing a short distance up a creek. There are 1200 inhabitants of the Muk 麥 clan, four ancestral halls, two temples, six shops, two schools of fourteen and sixteen boys each. The men are principally farmers; many of the women braid silk cord for Chinese shoes. The villagers are civil to strangers. There are a few opium smokers, but no gambling shops.

Sai Kow 西濠, in Nám Hoi district, Shun On Sz', is a hamlet on the west side of the creek, opposite Fun Shui, and 400 yards from the shore. There are 200 inhabitants of the surname 黎 Lai; one ancestral hall, one temple, but no school or shop. The villagers are farmers, poor and in low circumstances, but civil and friendly in their behavior to strangers.

Fung Chün Tow 馮村頭 in Nám Hoi district, Shun On Sz', is a small hamlet of mud and brick houses lying east of Sai Kow 500 yards, being reached by a path through rice fields and vegetable gardens. There are 200 inhabitants of the surnames 馮 Fung, and 郭 Kwok; one ancestral hall, one temple and one shop, but no school on account of the poverty of the villagers. They are farmers, employed in the neighboring rice fields and gardens.

Summary of the existing Post-office Regulations for the transmission of Books and Parliamentary papers within the United Kingdom, and to certain countries abroad and certain British Colonies.

Printed Parliamentary papers may be sent by post from place to place in the United Kingdom, or to the Colonies by the packets, and the proceedings of colonial legislatures sent by packet may be received, at the following rates.—If not exceeding 4oz., 1d.; if exceeding 4oz., and not exceeding 8oz., 2d.; if exceeding 8oz., and not exceeding 12oz., 3d., and so on; and if sent to the Colonies by private ship, they are charged double those rates. Thus, if sent by ship, the charge is twice as much as if sent overland via Southampton.

N. B.—The privilege as to the Colonies does not embrace the Overland packet conveyance to the EAST INDIES.

There is no limitation as to weight with Parliamentary Papers. Papers must be without covers, or in covers open at the sides. With such papers passing inland, prepayment is optional. Petitions and addresses forwarded to Her Majesty pass free. Members of Parliament may receive petitions and addresses to Her Majesty, or petitions to either House, free, if not exceeding 32 oz., and sent without covers, or in covers open at the sides. Periodical works and Parliamentary papers may be forwarded (from Great Britain) to France, Holland, and Prussia, but not forwarded through them to other countries, if the postage is paid in advance, and they are printed in the English language, and sent in covers open at the sides.

Not exceeding 2 oz.,	1d.
Above 2 oz., and not 3 oz.,	6d.
— 3 oz., — 4 oz.,	8d.

and 2d. additional for every ounce up to the weight of 16oz., to which they are limited (as regards these countries). When this description of publications are forwarded to or from Prussia via Belgium, they are subject, in addition to the above rates, to a Belgian transit rate of 2d. for every quarter ounce.

Periodical works and pamphlets may be also sent to and received from the United States at the same rates; the postage of those received being paid on delivery. No reprints of copyright works from any place abroad are allowed to pass at the above reduced rates, but are subject to letter rates of postage.

Printed books, magazines, reviews, and pamphlets, whether British, colonial, or foreign, may be transmitted by post through the United Kingdom at the following rates:—

Each book not exceeding 1lb. in weight,	0s. 6d.
Exceeding 1 lb., and not exceeding 2 lb.,	1s. 0d.
2 lb., and not 3 lb.,	1s. 6d.

and so on, 6d. being charged for every pound or part of a pound.

Every packet must be prepaid and sent without a cover, or in a cover open at the ends or sides, otherwise it will be charged as a letter, and treated as such in all respects.

Printed books are also sent to the British West Indies, Bermuda, Newfoundland, Canada, and to the Ionian Islands, Hongkong, Malta, and Gibraltar via Southampton, and Nova Scotia via Halifax, at the following rates:—

Under half a pound weight,	6d.
Exceeding ½lb. and under 1lb.	1s.
Exceeding 1 and under 2lb.,	2s.

and so on; the packet, as for inland transmission, being open at the ends or sides; but whether it requires to be prepaid or not is not apparent; therefore, for greater surety prepayment is advisable in all cases where it has not been positively ascertained from the Post-office that it is optional.

With reference to the recent authority of the Postmaster General for the transmission, through the Post-Office, PAMPHLETS and PERIODICALS, at the reduced rate of 1s. per lb., It is hereby notified that, as this privilege is extended to Hongkong only, publications of the above description forwarded through the branch offices at the Five Consular Ports, will be charged letter rate. THOMAS HYLAND, Postmaster.

HONGKONG POST-OFFICE NOTIFICATION.

Relating to Postage between China and the United States.

A POSTAL CONVENTION has been concluded between Her Majesty's Government and the United States of America, under which it is agreed that the SEA POSTAGE on LETTERS transmitted between the two countries shall, in future, be fixed at eightpence the Half Ounce, whether conveyed by British or United States' Packets, and that such postage shall belong to the country by which the packet conveying the letter is furnished.

By this convention it is further agreed, that letters from British Colonies and Possessions addressed to the United States, passing in transit through the United Kingdom, shall be delivered to the United States' Post-office free of all British Postage, whether packet or inland; and that in like manner, letters posted in the United States, addressed to British Colonies and possessions, and intended to pass in transit through the United Kingdom, shall be delivered to the British post-office free of all United States' postage, whether packet or inland.

All letters posted at this office, intended to be forwarded through the United Kingdom to any part of the United States by British packet, will be subjected to a postage of one shilling and eightpence the half ounce, instead of two shillings as heretofore; and upon such letters as may be intended to be conveyed between the United Kingdom and the United States by packet belonging to the United States, the rate will be one shilling only the half ounce (being the present charge from Hongkong to Great Britain), as the packet postage from England to the United States, as well as the United States' inland rate, will be collected in the United States.

NEWSPAPERS addressed to, and received from, the United States, passing in transit through the United Kingdom, whether conveyed by British or by United States' packets, are to be charged with a British rate of one penny each.

For the present, all letters and newspapers addressed to the United States, will be forwarded from England by British packets, unless specially addressed "To be forwarded by United States' packets."

It is to be understood, that the abovementioned rates apply only to letters and newspapers for the United States intended to be forwarded from Hongkong via Southampton; and that any correspondence via Marseilles will be liable to the rates of postage chargeable by that route from Hongkong to Great Britain in addition to the sea-rate from the United Kingdom to the United States.

By order of his Lordship, the Postmaster General, THOMAS HYLAND.

Extracts from two Letters from J. Tilley, assistant secretary, Relating to postage to the United States.

General Post-office, 8th March, 1851.

"With reference to your inquiry relative to the transmission of correspondence between Hongkong and the United States, I have to inform you that Letters and Newspapers, posted at Hongkong for the United States, need not be addressed to the care of any person in this country; the postage due upon such Letters and Newspapers as had been posted without, would be collected on delivery by the United States' Post-office.

"Letters from Hongkong, addressed to the United States, are chargeable with a British postage of 1s. 8d. the single rate, if brought to this country via Southampton; and with 2s. 6d. the single rate, if brought via Marseilles. Newspapers, in the former case, are liable to a British rate of one penny each; and, in the latter case, to a rate of 3d. each."

General Post-office, 25th July, 1852.

"SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 22d instant, I beg leave to inform you that under the existing regulations, no postage can be collected in Hongkong upon Letters or Newspapers forwarded to this country via Marseilles, whether such letters or newspapers be addressed to the United Kingdom, or intended to pass through the United Kingdom to British Colonies or foreign countries.

"The Postmaster of Hongkong has been instructed, however, to take in advance the British postage chargeable on letters for the United States forwarded for Hongkong via Southampton.* I have to add, that the British postage chargeable on a newspaper for the United States, forwarded from Hongkong via Marseilles, is, as I have already informed you. This postage cannot, however, be collected at Hongkong, but is accounted for to this office by the Post-office of the United States."

* Note of Compiler.—As the United States post-office charges sea-postage on the letters from China it delivers, letters are forwarded from Hongkong without demanding any prepayment.

* Passengers taking native servants from Hongkong to ADEN and SUEZ, or vice versa, and wishing them to go back to the port of embarkation, can take a return ticket for $96 and $192 respectively.

Passengers.

The rates of passage money will be proportionately increased according to the class of accommodation required.—The rates of passage money include stewards' fees, table, wines, &c., for first-class passengers. Bedding, linen, and all requisite cabin furniture are provided in the Steamers at the Company's expense, together with the attendance of experienced male and female servants.—The expense of transit through Egypt is received with the passage money to Malta and Southampton, with the exception of hotel expenses, and also of extra baggage, wines, spirits, beer, and soda water, all of which the Egyptian Transit Administration charge for separately.—Servants soliciting gratuities will be dismissed from the Company's service.—Passengers not embarking after engaging passage, to forfeit the deposit of half the amount of passage money. In case, however, of a passenger being prevented from availing himself of a passage at the period for which it is taken, a transfer of the passage can be effected to a subsequent Steamer, on due notice being given, without forfeiture of any portion of the deposit paid, and accommodation will be allotted as similar as circumstances will permit.—Passengers will be expected to comply with the regulations established on board the Steamers for the general comfort.—No berth or cabin is to be occupied by a passenger without application to the agent on shore, or to the purser on board. It is to be understood that a passenger occupying a cabin of two or more berths, on the departure of the vessel (unless he shall have paid an additional sum for its exclusive occupation), is not to object to the vacant berth or berths being filled up at the intermediate ports, if required.

Baggage.

First-class passengers are allowed, in the Company's steamers, only, on either side of the Isthmus, 3 cwt. of personal baggage free of freight, and children and servants $1\frac{1}{2}$ cwt. each.—A passenger taking a whole cabin will be entitled to take in the steamers, free of freight, one-half more baggage than the regulated allowance.—Passengers for Malta and Southampton will have to pay the Egyptian Transit Administration in Egypt, 16s. $\frac{1}{4}$ cwt., for conveyance of baggage through, should it exceed, for first-class passengers, 2 cwt. each, and children and servants, 1 cwt. each.—No package of baggage must exceed 80lb weight. The best dimensions for a trunk or portmanteau are, length 2 ft. 3 in.; breadth, 1 ft. 2 in.; depth, 1 ft. 2 in. The Transit Administration will not be responsible for the timely arrival at Suez or Alexandria, as the case may be, of any packages of baggage which shall exceed the prescribed limits.—All baggage must be shipped on the day previous to sailing, except carpet-bags or hat-boxes.—As the room for cargo is limited, no baggage can be conveyed on freight, unless accompanied by the passenger to whom it belongs.—It is prohibited by the Egyptian Transit Administration for passengers to carry merchandise, specie, or combustible articles with baggage. Passengers taking parcels or articles of merchandise in their baggage will incur the risk of seizure by the customs authorities, and of detention for freight by the Company's agents.—Every package of baggage should have the owner's name and place of destination painted upon it in white letters.—Baggage can be had up from the baggage-room by an application to the captain.—No trunks, boxes, or portmanteaux allowed in the saloon or cabins.

Notice.

All parties are requested to take notice, that the Company do not hold themselves liable for detention or delay of passengers arising from accident or from extraordinary or unavoidable circumstances arising out of or connected with the employment of the Company's vessels in Her Majesty's mail service; and that the Company do not hold themselves liable for damage to or loss or detention of passenger's baggage.

Charge for dogs, 48 dollars each, exclusive of charge for food, (25 cents per diem,) and expenses in Egypt.

ROBERT S. WALKER, Superintendent.

P. & O. Steam Nav. Co.'s Office, Hongkong, 1st Jan., 1853.

Trieste Route.

THE AUSTRIAN LLOYD'S STEAM NAV. CO.'S STEAMERS

Ply regularly between Alexandria and Trieste corresponding with the monthly and bi-monthly Indian Steamers. The fares have been reduced, and the following rates have been fixed, viz.—1st Class £16; 2d Class £11; 3d Class £7; including table-money and fees. Arrangements have been entered into between the directors of the Peninsular and Oriental S. N. Company and the directors of the Austrian Lloyd's S. N. Company, that,—

1st. Passengers intending to proceed from China via Trieste, can receive tickets from the Peninsular and Oriental Company's Agents for Alexandria.

2d. Passengers' baggage can be shipped from Alexandria by the Peninsular and Oriental Company's Steamers for Southampton; the freight being ten shillings sterling per cwt.

3d. Receipts for CARGO and SPECIE intended for shipment to Trieste will be granted by the Peninsular and Oriental Company's Agents to Alexandria, instead of to Suez as formerly.

For further particulars apply to,
Hongkong, 1st July, 1853.

Steam Communication between Hongkong, Amoy, and Shanghai.

These vessels leave Hongkong for Shanghai direct, once or twice a month, about four days after the arrival of the Mail from England.

REDUCED RATES OF PASSAGE MONEY

BY THE

PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY'S STEAMERS.

The following rates are for a berth in the general cabins, and will be proportionately increased if extra accommodation be required.

FROM	FIRST CLASS PASSENGERS.						SECOND CLASS PASSENGERS.	PASSENGERS' SERVANTS.		Third Class Passengers, on deck.
	Lady or Gentleman.	Children with their Parents, not exceeding 2 Years.	Children 2 Years and under 5 Years.	Children 5 Years and under 10 Years.	Native Passengers victualing themselves.	European.		Native.
Hongkong to	Amoy,	$29	Free	$7	$15	$22	$19	$15	$7	$10
	Shanghai,	95		24	48	71	63	48	24	32
Shanghai to	Amoy,	66		17	33	50	44	33	17	22
	Hongkong,	95		24	48	71	63	48	24	32
Amoy to	Shanghai,	66		17	33	50	44	33	17	22
	Hongkong.	29		7	15	71	19	15	7	10

A reduction will be made on the above rates for large family parties.

Passengers.

An allowance of one-fourth of the ordinary rate of passage money will be made to passengers making the return passage within four months from the day of landing, on satisfactory proof being given to the Agent of the passenger, and of his having paid full rates for the passage one way.—Passengers are at liberty to remain at one or more intermediate ports, and proceed by succeeding steamer upon application to the Agent, who will give written permission on the passage ticket.—(For other regulations, see preceding table.)

Baggage.

First-class Passengers are allowed 3 cwt. of personal baggage free of freight, and children and servants and second-class Passengers, 1½ cwt. each.—A passenger taking a whole cabin will be entitled to take, free of freight, one-half more baggage than the regulated allowance.—The charge for extra baggage, should there be room, will be the same as that made for cargo.—Baggage must be shipped on the day previous to sailing, except carpet-bags, hat-boxes, or similar small packages.—Passengers taking parcels or articles of merchandise in their baggage will incur the risk of seizure by the custom authorities, and of detention for freight by the Company's Agent.—Every package of baggage should have the owner's name and place of destination distinctly painted upon it in white letters.—Baggage can be had up from the baggage-room during the passage on application to the captain.—No trunks, boxes, or portmanteaux allowed in the saloons or cabins.

Notice.

All parties are requested to take notice, that the Company do not hold themselves liable for detention or delay of passengers arising from accident, or from extraordinary or unavoidable circumstances arising out of, or connected with, the employment of the Company's vessels in Her Majesty's mail service; and that the Company do not hold themselves liable for damage to, or loss or detention of passenger's baggage.

HONGKONG, 23d July, 1851.

O. C. EDMOND,—Superintendent.

Rates of Freight chargeable on Merchandise, &c.,

BY THE STEAMERS OF THE P. & O. STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY,

FROM INDIA, CHINA, AND AUSTRALIA TO SOUTHAMPTON.

Merchandise.

	India.	Hongkong.	Shanghai.
RAW SILK, of ten cwt. to a ton, in bales.	Rs. 150	$90	$100
SILK PIECE GOODS, and other Merchandise, in cases of forty cubic feet to a ton.	150	90	100
SPECIE, ad valorem.	20 $\frac{1}{2}$ ct.	24 $\frac{1}{2}$ ct.	24 $\frac{1}{2}$ ct.

The rate to Marseilles the same, and to Suez two-thirds of the above.

The Company will not be responsible for damage arising from insufficiency of protection in the package.

Application for space should be made as early as possible, in writing, stating the description and value of goods, which must be alongside the Steamer three days previous to the date of her sailing.

To insure goods keeping up with the Mails in Egypt, no package should exceed one cwt. Goods to be distinctly marked on the outer and inner packages, or the Company will not be answerable for wrong delivery.

Parcels.

Parcels under one quarter of a cubic foot measurement will be taken for one rupee four anas, or 60 cents, unless containing valuable articles; at and above that measurement, at the following graduated scale, including all charges to the port of delivery.

Measurement.	From Straits, China, and Batavia.
$\frac{1}{4}$ foot	\$2 20
Do. and 1 inch	2 40
Do. and 2 inches	2 65
$\frac{1}{2}$ foot	2 90
Do. and 1 inch	3 10
Do. and 2 inches	3 35
$\frac{3}{4}$ foot	3 60
Do. and 1 inch	3 85
Do. and 2 inches	4 10
1 foot	4 30

And for every additional inch measurement, 24 cents. If the package weighs more than 20 lbs. to the cubic foot, additional weight will be charged.

Parcels should be delivered two days before each Steamer's departure.

Periodicals will be charged eight anas each.

Packages exceeding one cubic foot must be in strong wooden cases, or they cannot be received. Liquids cannot be received; and if sent without notice, the shipper and consignee will be held responsible for damage arising therefrom.

Jewelry, silver, watches, and other valuable articles, are taken at the specie rate on their value, the Company reserving to themselves the right to charge by value, weight, or measurement.

Contents and Value must be declared at the time of booking, or the package cannot be received. A wrong declaration of value or contents subjects the consignee to a charge of double freight, and the package to seizure at the custom-house. Receipts will be given on delivery and payment of freight of each parcel, in which particulars of risk and all charges will be specified.

Parcels must be applied for to the Company's agents at the port of delivery.

By order, JAMES BARBER,

122 Leadenhall Street, Jan. 1st, 1853.

Superintendent, Parcel Department.

List of Foreign Residents in China.

This list has been prepared with care from the preceding lists for the purpose of ready reference, and is intended to include the names of all foreigners resident in China, except the inhabitants of Macao, and those living at the anchorages of Wusung, Lukong, Namoh, and the mouth of the River Min, which have not been obtained for insertion. Though errors will probably be found in the list, it is hoped they are not numerous.

Abbreviations—Ca stands for Canton; wh for Whampoa; ma for Macao; ho for Hongkong; am for Amoy; fu for Fuhchau; ni for Ningpo; sh for Shánghái.

The Successful Merchant.

The Successful Merchant.—Mercantile success depends very much upon a sagacious calculation of the probabilities of the future. The young merchant looks to the future for that competence which is the object of his labors; and his hope is realized in proportion as he is skillful in anticipating the phases and wants of that future. The sagacious merchant infers, from certain appearances of the present, that such and such will be the condition and wants of the coming season, and he prepares himself to meet that condition and those wants; and prosperity is the reward of his foresight and care. He judges from information which he has carefully collected, and from appearances which he has watchfully noted, that a certain crop will be short, or a particular description of goods scarce; he estimates the demand and the prices which a short supply will occasion; he takes care, in good season, to obtain the control of as much of the article to be supplied as he can dispose of; and, this done, he can coolly count his gains, weeks or months before they are realized, with as much confidence as if they were already in his hands.

The two principal conditions of success in mercantile calculations appear to be, a sound and well-informed judgment, and a regulated and reasonable desire of gain. The inordinate, grasping anxiety of wealth, which characterizes many men, is, in a large proportion of cases, a passion fatal to their success. It blinds the judgment, and misleads it into visionary schemes and ruinous speculations; and an ample experience shows that men of the coolest, most deliberate habits, when they have once yielded to the passion for wealth, are no longer capable of reasoning wisely.

The whole mercantile community have a deep interest in the vast modern increase of the facilities for diffusing and obtaining full and correct information on everything pertaining to trade, so that all can enjoy its advantages; and no man need hope to compete successfully with his neighbor, who shuts himself out from a participation in these facilities. The time has come when it is no longer in the power of the few to monopolize; and every day tends more and more to equalize the condition and advantages of business men, and to throw wide open all the doors to wealth, respectability, influence and honor. Nor is there any necessity for the frequent failures in mercantile life which have distinguished the past. The young merchant, who commences on the broad and sound moral basis of integrity and nice mercantile honor, and who conducts his business with intelligence and judgment, and without undue eagerness and haste to be rich, will generally meet with success, as he will certainly deserve it.

Ocean Penny-Postage—Will it Pay?

Ocean Penny-Postage—Will it Pay?—It is admitted says Elihu Burritt, that the British Post-office Department derives a profit from the Penny Post system, the expenses of which are: 1st, collecting; 2d, transmitting; 3d, delivering. Rowland Hill shows that the transmission of letters from London to Edinburgh costs, on an average, the eighteenth part of a cent each. Now, let us assume that the collection cost twice as much as the transmission, or two cents for eighteen letters. Suppose that 30,000 letters are sent to America by every steam-packet from Liverpool. The expense of collecting and transmitting them to Liverpool would be less than $60. Let us allow the Department $30 for assorting these letters in the Liverpool Post-office, and sending them on board the steamer. Then we have $90 as the bill of expense by the time that they are fairly on their way for America. But the Government has received two cents on every one weighing under, and four cents upon every one weighing over, half an ounce, or $620 on the lot—a clear profit of $530, or more than 600 per cent. Let us allow it 50 per cent. Half a cent per letter will yield the Post Office more than 50 per cent. profit on all the expense incurred in collecting and getting these 30,000 letters on board of the steam-packet.
